When did the story of Texas begin?

Becoming Texas: Our Story Begins Here explores more than 16,000 years on the land we now call Texas. Discover the people, places, and events that shaped the landscape prior to Mexican Independence in 1821.

What to See and Do

- Projectile point
  Discovered just north of Austin in 2011, this stone point with a broken tip was made at least 16,000 years ago and changed our understanding of when humans arrived in the Americas.

- La Belle and its cargo
  See the excavated hull of the French colonial shipwreck La Belle, which sank off the Texas coast in 1686. View thousands of cargo items discovered with the ship, including items needed to start a colony and trade with American Indian groups. See the ship from various viewpoints as it would have appeared prior to sinking with augmented reality kiosks located on all three floors.

- American Indian traditions
  Explore the importance of bison to early Texans, and learn how American Indian artists are passing on their cultures’ traditions to future generations with interactive multimedia, artifacts, and a life-size bison statue made exclusively for the Bullock Museum.

- Landscape theater
  Immerse yourself in different Texas landscapes and hear the languages that existed in early Texas with a multi-sensory environmental experience.
Uncover the history of Texas’s relationships with Mexico and the United States, and explore the stories that shaped the state as it moved through annexation, immigration, the economic and human cost of slavery, the Civil War, Reconstruction, and the Texas Centennial.

What to See and Do

- Sam Houston statue
  This model of an 1892 statue by German sculptor Elisabet Ney represents Ney’s vigorous portrait of Houston at about age 40 — the age he was when he first came to Texas and took on the leadership of the Texas revolutionary army.

- The Alamo
  Step inside the door of the Alamo façade for a short film based on an eyewitness account of the Texas Revolution by Captain Juan Nepomuceno Seguín.

- Cotton gin
  Invented in 1793, the cotton gin revolutionized the cotton industry. This steam-powered cotton gin was used in the Texas Hill Country community of Luckenbach and was capable of producing five to six bales of cotton a day.

- Goddess of Liberty
  Invented in 1888, this original statue graced the top of the Texas State Capitol Building dome for nearly 100 years. The Goddess of Liberty continues to represent the liberties of all Texans.

Third Floor
Texas History Galleries
Land, culture, and technology in Texas
Learn how industries, scientific developments, and struggles for equality have shaped the state and continue to impact Texans today. Explore the iconic music, cinema, and sports that ignite the imaginations of the Lone Star State and beyond.

What to See and Do
- AT-6A Airplane
  The AT-6A “Texan” airplane was used to train pilots, including the Women Air Force Service Pilots (WASPs). The AT-6A soars above three floors of galleries with its Pratt & Whitney R-1340-49 Wasp radial engine on view nearby.
- 1953 F-100
  In 1903, Ford Motor Company established a plant in Dallas. Fifty years later, Ford Motor Company celebrated its anniversary with the Ford F100 pickup truck, which carried the sticker “Made in Texas by Texans.”
- Pump Jack
  View a working pump jack, an icon of Texas oil production used to extract crude oil from the ground. Discover how these structures operate with an animation that demonstrates the process of forcing oil to the surface.
- Austin City Limits Theater
  Visit the Austin City Limits Theater for a large-screen concert experience featuring film clips from the longest-running music program in American television history. Photo courtesy Austin City Limits.
Mental Health: Mind Matters on view May 7–July 31, 2022

Discover immersive experiences and multimedia activities that provide a respectful, informative, engaging place for learning and conversations about mental health.

Mental Health: Mind Matters was produced for North America by the Science Museum of Minnesota in collaboration with Heureka: The Finnish Science Centre.

Sponsored locally by the Albert and Ethel Herzstein Hall Fund.

The Fourth Grade Project on view June 25–Dec. 11, 2022

See 65 portraits of fourth grade students from 10 countries. Told in the fourth graders’ own words, their varied stories touch on the human condition and urgent social issues.

The Fourth Grade Project is a program of ExhibitsUSA, a national division of Mid-America Arts Alliance with Texas Commission on the Arts and The National Endowment for the Arts.
